ST PETER PORT

The Islands of Guernsey, Sark, Alderney, Herm and Lihou are located in the English Channel, just 30 miles from the Normandy coast.

Welcome to the Islands of Guernsey

We are a beautiful archipelago, offering five Islands to explore. If you are longing for a change of scenery, we could be just what you need.

As we see border restrictions disappear and a return to a life we'd almost dared not to dream about, we can't wait to welcome you back to the Islands of Guernsey.

A place where you can spend quality time with people you love in an environment that is safe and welcoming. Our capital, St Peter Port, has a distinct Mediterranean feel with unique, independent shops; where cafes, restaurants and bars throw open their doors from spring to autumn, allowing people to spill out onto the pavements and seafront to enjoy the fresh air and lovely views.

Our milder climate means the summer feels like it lasts longer here in the Islands. We are still enjoying our beaches well into September, when the air is warm, and so is the sea. As we drift into autumn, the Island's coastlines become a little wilder and cliff paths are carpeted with autumn leaves. Visit in winter to embrace the elements with wind-swept walks along deserted beaches and then retreat to a cosy hotel to warm up by a roaring log fire.

Here in the Islands of Guernsey we are spoilt for choice when it comes to our beautiful beaches.

Abandon your shoes and feel the soft golden sands between your toes, build epic sandcastles and explore our low tide rock pools, snorkel in our sheltered coves and find your spot on our uncrowded beaches.

If you've missed the buzz of busy, but not crowded, restaurants we are ready to serve, with more than 200 eateries to choose from.

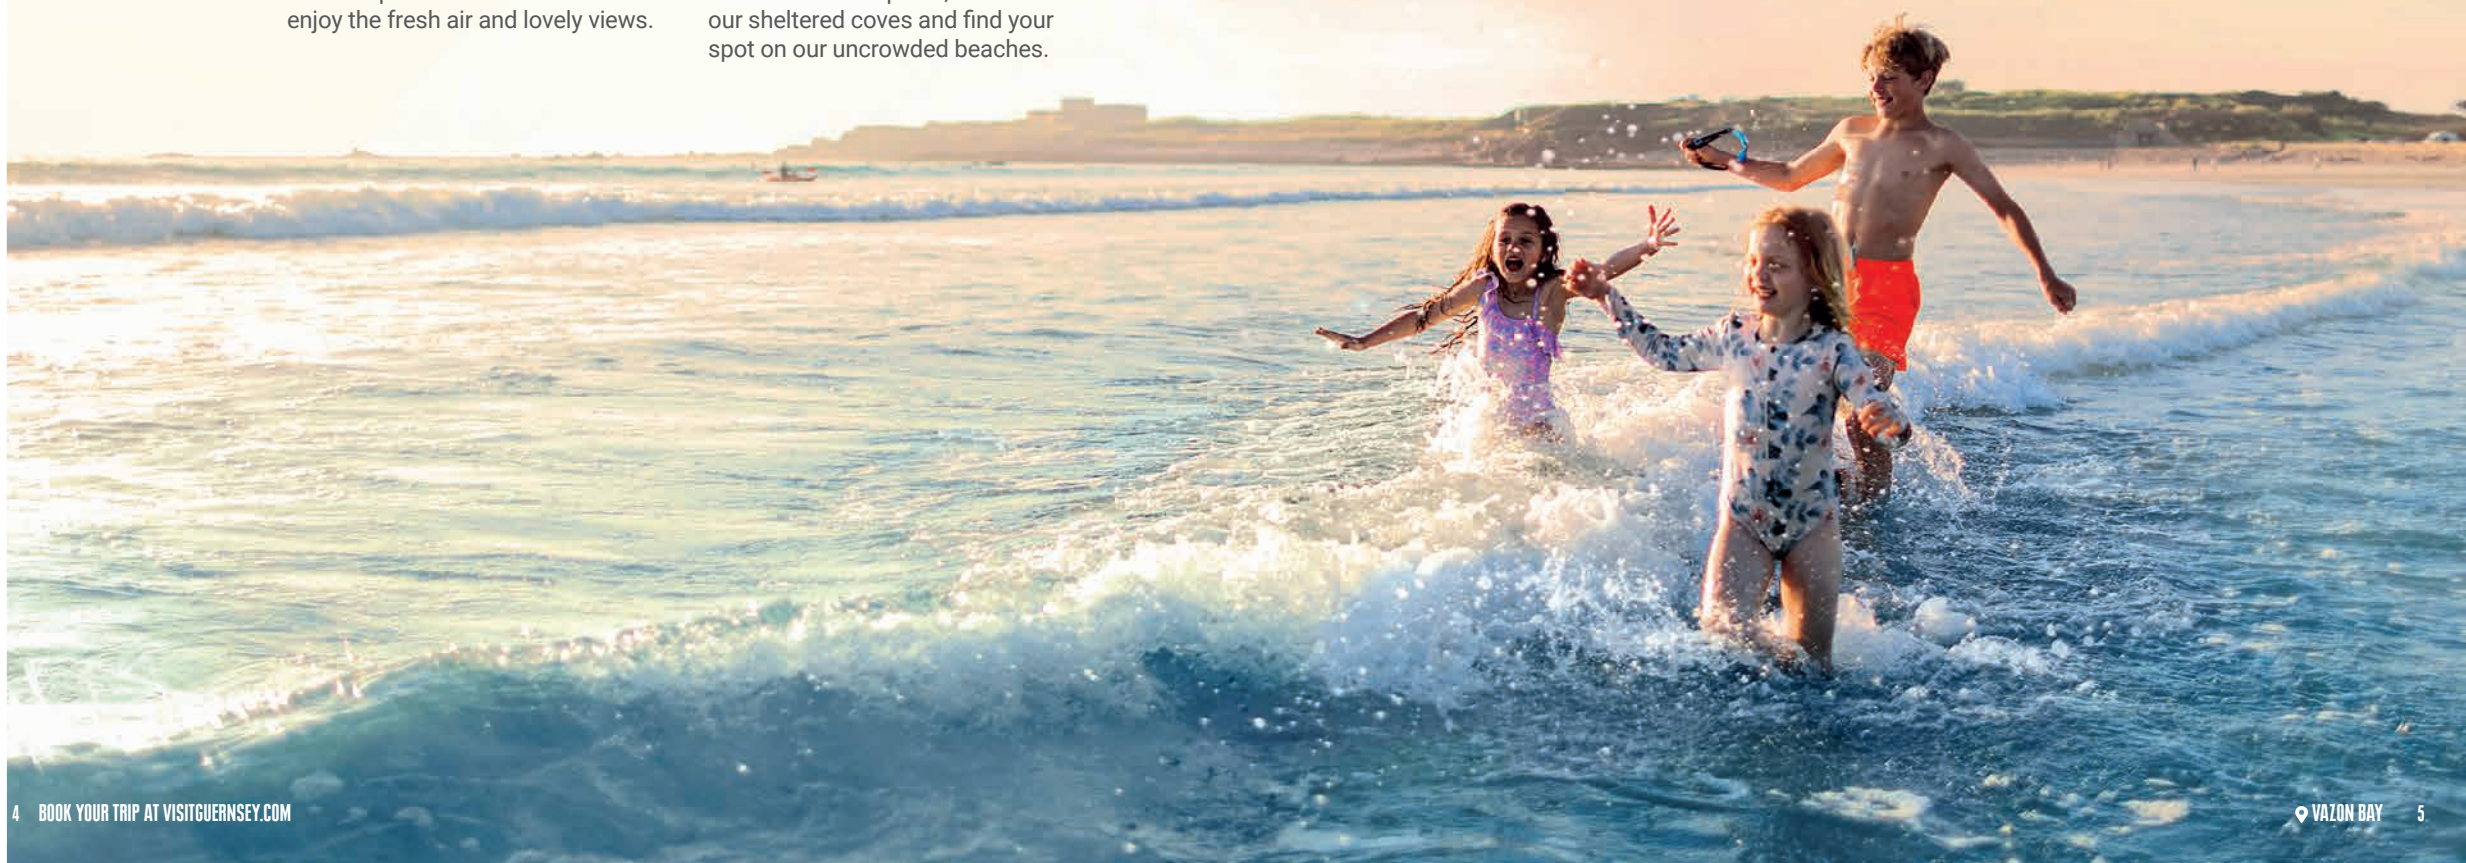

History here is entwined in the everyday. From Neolithic burial ruins to Roman Forts to World War II bunkers, you can step into the past and relive thousands of years of the Islands' history.

A trip to one of our sister Islands, Alderney, Sark, Herm and Lihou, offers you sparkling turquoise seas, award-winning gardens and a gentler pace of life.

Just a 30-minute flight or a 3-hour ferry crossing from the UK, our five Islands each have their own unique character, landscape and identity.

We are lucky enough to live in this very special corner of the British Isles, and we are so excited to welcome you back.

It's time to embrace that Island feeling.

Take a deep breath

There is no better place to reconnect with the great outdoors than here in our beautiful Islands.

If you've been longing for some fresh air, or have a hankering for big open spaces, we can't wait to welcome you back to our cliff paths and clear waters, pristine golf courses and cycle trails.

Why not download our new VisitGuernsey Walking App and explore the Island's most scenic route at your own pace.

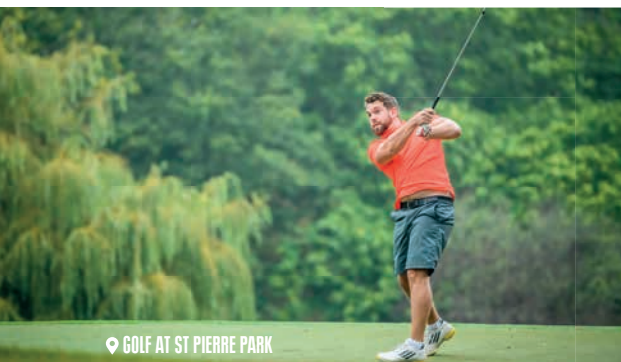

Our smallest Islands, Herm and Lihou, can only be explored on foot, while cycling offers a fantastic way to get around Sark, Alderney and Guernsey. Meander down the rural paths and quieter roads, and have a mooch. Find charming Hedge Veg stalls and secret views that you'd miss from the main road.

For more serious cyclists, there are 14 official bike tours, ranging from 6 to 12 miles, for all ability levels. Plan your adventure on two wheels at visitguernsey.com

If golf is your thing, there are four golf courses on the Islands – three in Guernsey, and one on Alderney, as well as a driving range and even mini and adventure golf for those who take the game a little less seriously.

St Peter Port – your kind of town

St Peter Port is a charming seafront town, where the streets are festooned with bunting and tumbling floral displays and the cobbled streets are home to resident buskers through the warm, summer months.

It's a town that makes you smile as you walk through, where everyone says hello. It's a town that makes you feel at home.

It's also really sociable, with cafés, restaurants and bars throwing open their doors from spring to autumn, allowing people to spill out onto the pavements and seafront to enjoy the fresh air and lovely views.

St Peter Port is small but perfectly formed. Just a five minute walk from the High Street, you can be sat on a sandy beach, overlooking Castle Cornet and our sister Islands beyond. Stroll a little further and you'll be on the cliff paths taking you to glorious secluded bays around the headland.

A short walk in the other direction and you'll be at historic Candie Gardens, home to Guernsey Museum and Art Gallery. From here, enjoy beautiful far-reaching views across town and out to our sister Islands.

CREUX HARBOUR, SARK

Sark

Just a 35-minute boat ride from Guernsey, Sark feels an entire world away. With no cars, the Island's pace depends on your own – will you explore on foot, bike or horse and carriage?

With one of the most unique High Streets in the British Isles, the unpaved roads weave across Sark's beautiful landscape revealing hidden bays, great places to eat and even an RHS-recommended garden at La Seigneurie.

A trip to Sark isn't complete without a walk across La Coupée, one of the most breathtaking spots in the Bailiwick. With dramatic drops either side, this centuries-old narrow isthmus that joins Sark to Little Sark is not for the faint hearted, but you will be rewarded with incredible views of the Islands.

In 2011, Sark was the world's first designated Dark Sky Island. There are no street lights so, on a clear night, you'll be rewarded with a truly spectacular, star-studded show.

Herm

With its clear turquoise seas, Herm is often likened to a Caribbean, rather than British, island.

Herm can easily be explored on foot in just 2 – 3 hours, with stunning coastal scenery, lush greenery, and unspoilt beaches. Shell Beach and Belvoir Bay have gloriously soft white sand made from millions of tiny shell fragments washed up by the Gulf Stream, and Herm's cliffs are home to one of Europe's most southerly puffin-breeding colony.

The island's award-winning gardening team has created a new nature trail quiz offering fantastic picture boards detailing the island's diverse range of birds, insects, marine and plant life.

This tiny car-free island is just 20 minutes by boat from Guernsey and perfect for a day trip or a longer stay, with a beautiful hotel, 20 holiday cottages, a campsite, shop and two pubs.

If you're really lucky, you'll be joined on the trip over by dolphins, who love to play in the wake of the boat. Herm is a magical part of the world, and a wonderful place to soak up the peace and truly relax.

Herm really is paradise right on our doorstep!

Alderney

With stunning sandy beaches, a great selection of places to eat, a fascinating history and wildlife unique to the Island, Alderney is the third largest of the Channel Islands.

If you love wildlife then you will love Alderney! Best known for being home to the blonde hedgehog, more than 8,000 pairs of Gannets and just over 100 pairs of puffins choose to make Alderney their home in each year.

There are plenty of ways to see the Island, but hopping aboard the only working railway in the Channel Islands is the most fun.

Alderney offers a relaxed way of life, in a safe environment, where quality time is easy to find. Where a beach or stunning cliff top view is at the end of every road and path. Where every experience is authentic.

Come on over, we're just a 15 minute flight or an hour-long ferry journey away.

📍 CORBLETS BEACH, ALDERNEY

📍 VENUS POOL

Lihou

It sounds like somewhere straight out of a Famous Five adventure, but it's true! The receding tide reveals a 570m ancient stone causeway leading to the Island's fantastic rock pools, priory ruins, RAMSAR-designated wetlands and the 'Venus Pool', a natural swimming pool formed in the rocks.

You can only access Lihou Island on certain low tides, so be sure to check the tide times ahead of your day trip exploring the magnificent wildlife and swimming in our little island.

These boots were made for walking

Walking is one of the best ways to see our glorious Islands.

Whether you're an ambler, a rambler or a serious hiker, you can choose your own pace to explore the Islands of Guernsey.

Take one of the wildflower-lined footpaths that lead off some of our main roads and suddenly you are on the spectacular south coast cliff paths. These routes are dotted with entry and exit points so when your legs get tired you can stop off at one of the cafés and kiosks along the path for a well-deserved cuppa and slice of Gâche or ice-cream (with a view).

If the cliffs are a little adventurous, the sandy flats of the western and northern coasts are just as exhilarating, but not quite as exhausting. Amazing views are everywhere you look, whether you choose to roam alone or go on one of the many informative guided walks that are available.

Sea swimming – it's time to dive in

As an Island community we have long championed the benefits of sea swimming. It's what we do, but in recent years more and more of us are taking the plunge all year round – and it seems we aren't alone.

Open water swimming is seeing something of a renaissance, and there are few more beautiful places to dive in than here.

There is a growing weight of evidence to suggest that cold water swimming can help not only our physical health but also improve our mental wellbeing. Immersing yourself in cold water boosts dopamine levels and increases the release of endorphins. It gives you the feel-good factor. And there's no better place to give it a go than the clear waters of the Islands of Guernsey.

While many of us choose to swim alone, groups of all-weather swimmers, of all shapes and sizes, ages and abilities, have been gaining momentum. When you combine that sense of camaraderie, together with the exercise and the views, it's easy to see why swimming outdoors has such a profound effect on our sense of wellbeing.

Some swimmers like a real challenge, which our bays and saltwater pools at La Vallette are ideal for, but most like a dip, then a cuppa from their Thermos and a chinwag, or a Sunday roast at a cosy seafront restaurant. As you'd expect, all are welcoming, all you need is your swimmers and some Dutch courage.

Welcome to our Island Zoo

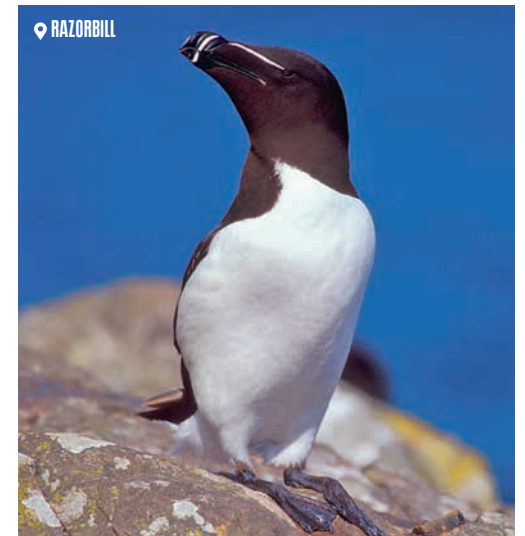

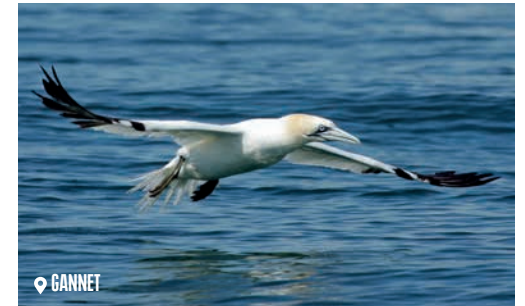

The Islands of Guernsey Zoo is like no other. A place where there are no boundaries for the inhabitants who happily live here by choice.

The wildlife and birds who choose to make the Islands their home have complete freedom in our uncrowded cliff perches, wetlands and waters.

It's so good that the dolphins came for a summer a few years ago and never left. They are often out playing in the wake of boats, kayaks and jet skis in the waters between the Islands, providing truly memorable moments for those aboard.

Swimmers often have playful seals for company, mooching around the Islands from the rocks they call home up around the Humps to the north of Herm.

The Islands have two RAMSAR protected sites, Lihou Island and the surrounding wetlands as well as Herm, Jethou and the Humps. These wetlands, which are still accessible to visitors, are five star accommodation for the rare species that have moved in.

Plants also flourish in the Islands with the Wild Orchid meadows in flower in May and June and the Guernsey Lily in late September. And, all year round, the Islands of Guernsey are a bird watchers' paradise where you will be able to spot some of the 150 species of birds that call us home, including the Eurasian spoonbill, red kites, and the European bee-eater.

Between April and July, the puffins nest high on Herm's cliff edges and are bobbing in the waters around the Islands, distinguishable by their brightly-coloured beaks.

They are all able to thrive in this natural environment all year round, and we are lucky enough to live alongside in awe.

Eating out never tasted so good

As we readjust to being able to go out, to entertain and to meet up with family and friends, there's never been a better time to celebrate here in the Islands of Guernsey.

To toast great food, with great company, in great restaurants.

As Islanders we are spoilt for choice and we forget just how good our food offering is here on the Islands.

We still pride ourselves on many of the restaurants, cafes and kiosks here still being family owned and run, making each and every one unique and welcoming.

This is a place where the gin is distilled in the hotel in which you're staying, and the crab in the sandwich at the beach kiosk was caught in the very bay it overlooks.

Where the crunchy batter on your beachside fish and chips is as good as your ice cold local beer sat in the sun on your hotel balcony. The tomatoes taste like tomatoes because they were ripened in our sun-baked greenhouses and the lobster is the best you've tasted, because it was landed a couple of hours before it was served.

The down time that Covid provided resulted in a flurry of new businesses, with new micro-breweries cropping up and home bakers flourishing into full time businesses and fabulous new Hedge Veg stalls.

We have become more sustainable and more mindful of our food miles which means our food and drink is even better than it was before. And it was already among the best in the British Isles, and one of the reasons why we've been named the British Isles' Gastronomic Hotspot in the Good Food Guide.

If you've missed the buzz of busy, but not crowded, restaurants, the view from your favourite café, the drink that just doesn't taste the same when you're at home or an indulgent breakfast in bed, it's time. With more than 200 places to eat, it's time to make that booking, to look forward to the simple things again.

Time well spent

The Islands of Guernsey offer short haul escapism. This is wellness but not as we know it.

Wellness used to mean me-time, but now it also means us-time. Spending time with those you love, getting out in the fresh air, eating well and getting a good night's sleep are sometimes all that we need.

This isn't a spa break or an all-inclusive yoga retreat (although we have those too), it's a glass (or two) of something really good, with someone you love, under the stars with no interruptions, it's a morning cuppa listening to the sound of the sea, it's not setting your alarm.

These last few years have taken their toll on many of us, in different ways, but as we emerge it's time to invest in ourselves and what really matters.

Yes, we have incredible cliff paths to run on, clear waters to dive into and beach yoga, you can even have a go standing on a paddle board, but you can also come here and do absolutely nothing. Gloriously nothing.

You deserve a break.

The Islands of Guernsey is ready to welcome you for your perfect getaway, whatever it is you need to feel you again.

You don't have to wander far to uncover our rich history

From Neolithic burial ruins to Roman Forts and World War II bunkers, you can step into the past and relive thousands of years of the Islands' history.

Our past isn't consigned to history books. It's in towers you can climb, ancient stone carvings you can touch, a unique (little) chapel you can play hide and seek in and museums that encourage you to interact.

Find out how a Prince brought wallabies to Herm, a London underground train ended up in Alderney, a formidable Dame stood up to invading troops at the beginning of the German Occupation.

The Channel Islands were the only part of the British Isles to be occupied during World War II, and the Islands of Guernsey lived under German control from June 1940 to May 1945.

During the Occupation, German troops fortified the Islands, building bunkers and tunnels and adapting existing defences, which can all still be visited today.

Our history isn't just in the walls, it's in its people. This part of our history, which is still in living memory for some of our Island residents, provided the inspiration for the best-selling novel, and film adaptation, 'The Guernsey Literary and Potato Peel Pie Society'.

Today, you can walk in their footsteps, with both guided and self-guided tours, and find out about the real people who inspired these characters.

PLEINMONT HEADLAND

Surrounded by stunning scenery and time for yourself, it's no surprise that arts and literature flourish in the Islands. Visit our cultural hotspots, or revel in the peace and revive your own creativity.

Culture Vultures

From our native language to the jumpers that we wear, our traditional dishes to our local dance, our roots are buried deep in all aspects of Island life.

We are proud Islanders who love our past and it is still weaved in our every day life today.

Our historical and artistic links are well documented.

In 1883 French impressionist, Pierre-Auguste Renoir, spent a month in Guernsey. While here he famously painted 15 masterpieces, all depicting views of Moulin Huet Bay, on the south coast. You can still follow in his footsteps today and see the very same views that inspired him.

Writer and poet Victor Hugo landed in Guernsey in October 1855, exiled from his native France. It didn't take long for him to fall in love with the Island and, during his 15 years as resident on the Island, he wrote many of his most famous works, including Les Misérables and Toilers of the Sea, which was dedicated to Guernsey, calling us 'the rock of hospitality and freedom'.

Victor Hugo's Island home, Hauteville House, has been recently renovated and is open to the public. The house was lovingly designed and decorated by Hugo and gives a unique insight his wildly eccentric taste.

The Guernsey Museum and Art Gallery is just one of the fascinating spaces where you can go to find out more about our past, while also hosting a programme of modern exhibitions and installations.

More recently, the arts have seen an exciting revival with new galleries, exhibitions and public spaces cropping up around the Island, showing both high profile visiting artwork alongside local works. There is much to see and embrace when it comes to who we are and we'd love to share our story with you.

The Islands for all seasons

Gone are the days of the big two week summer holiday, we are now looking for more. More short breaks throughout the year, more to look forward to.

Thanks to our milder climate, summer feels like it lasts longer here in the Islands. We are still dragging our barbecues down to the beach well into September, when the air is warm, and so is the sea.

As we drift into autumn, the Island's coastlines become a little wilder and cliff paths are carpeted with autumn leaves. Stroll at your own pace, stopping at clifftop shops and cafés or join the Guides leading the Autumn Walking Festival.

Stretch your legs on our scenic walks, blow the cobwebs away with a blustery beach walk or maybe brave our waters and go for a dip, then head to one of our restaurants for a cosy, fireside lunch.

📍 CAMP DE RÉVES

📍 L'ERÉE BAY

Here in the Islands, we have a vibrant community that loves going out, so whatever time of the year you visit you'll be eating in busy restaurants. This is particularly true in October, when we celebrate eating out for less with the Tennerfest, when it's cheaper to eat out, than it is to stay at home.

Pop on an extra layer and head over to our sister Islands for a wander, all the Islands are just as beautiful when the air is crisp. Why not stay over and take advantage of the dark, clear skies for the some of the best star-gazing in the British Isles?

This gracious Georgian house sits atop a steep hill on the outskirts of St Peter Port. Its position ensures enviable views from its restaurant and terraces, providing an excellent base for those who wish to include a visit to Hauteville House, Victor Hugo's Guernsey residence, during their stay.

Although only a 15-minute downhill walk to the town centre, the climb back up is fairly steep, however from April to October a courtesy mini-bus operates several times daily. A complimentary afternoon tour is also offered twice weekly.

There are 34 attractive and well-equipped bedrooms, some with walk in showers and the majority with baths with overhead showers. Our Superior Rooms provide the extra comfort of luxurious bathrobes, slippers, toiletries, premium biscuits, soft drinks, in-room safes and iPod docks. An indoor pool together with steam room, sauna and Jacuzzi lead out onto a terrace furnished with sun loungers and into the sheltered gardens.

The former Coach house is home to the hotel's two restaurants: The Wellington boot on the first floor overlooks Castle Cornet and the neighbouring islands. On the ground floor the very popular Copenhagen bar and grill are situated, and an attractive terrace offers the possibility of Al fresco lunches, afternoon teas and even dinner on balmy evenings.

As three time winner of Best Western UK's "Best customer experience" (small hotel) proves, the hotel's greatest asset is its staff who will do their utmost to ensure a great stay. Hotel de Havelet is open year-round, with relaxing Romantic breaks, and Christmas and New Year packages for treating that special someone.

Paul H - "A Perfect Stay"

The superb staff make this already excellent hotel even better. They are highly professional and attentive, yet friendly and sociable. The food is superb. Extremely well presented and very tasty, with decent portions. The rooms are very comfortable. I honestly do not know how this hotel could improve. Whenever I visit Guernsey again, La Barbarie is where I will stay. This is quite simply the best hotel stay that I have ever had.

Colin W - "Up to the usual great standard"

Consistently high standard yet again, La Barbarie never lets us down. You are never disappointed with this hotel. The restaurant is excellent, room first class and the staff always most helpful. The situation is delightful being so close to the cliffs and many wonderful walks. A great place to stay.
